

Menu

May 22, 24

Audacity!: Report From The Second Battle For Tucson

Filed Under: Action, Solidarity, Southwest, War

— Living And Fighting

Share This:

Report from so-called Tucson, AZ about ongoing action in solidarity with Palestine. Originally posted to Living and Fighting.

The first Battle for Tucson ended in victory for us when the cops trashed our encampment at the Olive Grove by the University of Arizona Main Gate on May 1. We escaped from campus after a four-hour standoff, supported by hundreds of comrades who held back a police charge in the street with linked arms. We suffered four arrests and a couple of rubber bullet wounds, at least one serious. See Living and Fighting for more on Tucson and my first report, also published in Hard Crackers.

“Audacity, still more audacity, audacity always!”

-Georges Danton, French Revolution 1792

“The best defense is disorder.”

-The Do-It-Yourself Occupation Guide

On May 9th, we returned to the Olive Grove and built another camp, where we did our best to be the world we wanted to be for about six hours. We know they were gunning for us by then and it was only a few dozen battle-proped people